NYC Arts & Biz Spotlight: Flavorpill + Perrier

Lunch Breaks, a lunchtime dance party by Flavorpill and Perrier have hit NYC as well as other cities like Miami, Chicago, and LA. The midday party series provides a live DJ and a free cocktail for employees to dance their lunch hour away—and even offers a classic bagged lunch as you head back to the office. In addition to paving the way for a more productive afternoon, the creative practice of office dance parties helps to engage employees with one another and foster a sense of camaraderie among staff.

There's Still Time to Give a "Creative" Gift This Year!

2016 has been quite a year! As this year draws to a close, we thank you for your past support of the Arts & Business Council of New York. Because of the unwavering commitment of hundreds of supporters like you, our mission of making New York’s arts community stronger and more vibrant has been a success for over 51 years.

That’s why we are making one last ask for a financial gift, of any size, to the artistic and cultural vitality of New York before December 31.

In 51 years we have...

- Started the first of many Arts & Business Councils which now exist across the country.
- Initiated two pipelines for future arts and business leaders - our Diversity in Arts Leadership (DIAL) internship and the Emerging Leaders of New York Arts (ELNYA).
- Launched the Business Volunteers for the Arts - adding thousands of hours of corporate skills to hundreds of arts nonprofits in NYC.

In 2017 we will continue to...

- Celebrate 25 years of developing interns (232 to be exact) who have contributed nearly 93,000 hours to 109 arts nonprofits in NYC.
- Impact even more arts nonprofits and businesses through our arts-based employee engagement and corporate development platform and volunteer matching portal.
- Engage hundreds of corporate and arts professionals through professional trainings and thought-provoking events.

Your gift means more creative #artsandbiz partnerships can thrive.
