En Garde Arts	(aka)	1847051-32-19
Brooklyn, NY 11201-8603

To support the creation of Fandango for Butterflies (and Coyotes), a new multimedia documentary theater work exploring immigration written by Andrea Thome and directed by José Zayas, with original music by Sinuhé Padilla-Isunza. Rather than focusing on political issues related to immigration, the work will explore the shared experience and understanding of how people find, define, and create a home. The work will be based on interviews with Latin American immigrants in New York from all socio-economic backgrounds, who have successfully created homes in the United States. The interviews focus on what it means to search for a home, leave the one you came from, and find a sense of belonging in a new country. The piece will be developed in the form of a traditional Mexican fandango, a celebration of music and dance, with performers intermingled with audience members and everyone seated in a circle.

Waldman, Rose 1846566-52-19
Brooklyn, NY 11249-6669

To support the translation from the Yiddish of the autobiographical novel Rings on the Soul by Eli Shechtman. A native of Ukraine, Shechtman (1908-96) was a recipient of the Itsik Manger prize; the Chaim Zhitlowsky prize; the Fernando Jeno Award for literature in Spanish, Hebrew, and Yiddish; and the Congress of Jewish Culture Award. His detailed portrayals of the Soviet Jewish shtetl (small towns) illuminate a lifestyle that was systemically wiped out. He was arrested by Stalin's henchmen in 1948, but did not share the fate of 13 writers who were executed on August 12, 1952, in what has become known as the "night of the murdered poets." He immigrated to Israel in 1972. Written when he was 73 years old, this penultimate novel is a rendering of the life he lived, fraught with sadness, fear, and tremendous loss. It is also a historical novel, encapsulating a half-century of Jewish life under Soviet rule.

Drawing Center, Inc.	(aka The Drawing Center)	1847789-44-19
New York, NY 10013-5300

To support the exhibition Neo Rauch: Aus dem Boden / From the Floor. Organized in collaboration with the Des Moines Art Center, the exhibition will be the first comprehensive exhibition in the United States of German artist Neo Rauch (b. 1960). Featuring more than 180 works spanning more than 30 years of Rauch's career, the exhibition will present drawing as an essential, but often overlooked, aspect of the artist's body of work. Rauch, rather than making preparatory sketches before he begins painting, uses drawing to mine his own subconscious and visualize characters and scenarios for works in progress. The exhibition, which will feature drawings, thumbnail compositional sketches, and the artist's doodles, will reveal the intimate nature of Rauch's working process. Public programs will include musical performances, discussions, lectures, tours, and workshops for K-12 students.

Brooklyn, NY 11217-1334

To support the re-translation from the Brazilian-Portuguese of the novel Macunaíma, the Hero Without a Character by Mário de Andrade. Trained as a classical pianist, and author of more than 40 books, Andrade (1893-1945) was a modernist poet, novelist, ethnomusicologist, folklorist, critic, and cultural historian with a mixed European and African heritage. Reflecting a passion for the diversity of the Brazilian people, Andrade's work explores the stereotypes and contradictions of race and sexuality in Brazilian culture, as well as in foreign ideas about Brazil. One of the most important Brazilian novels of the 20th century though currently out of print in English, Macunaíma was written in spoken and regional forms of Brazilian-Portuguese with a mix of Tupi (the major Brazilian indigenous language), other indigenous languages from the Carib tribes, and African Bantu languages. The story centers on a trickster hero who appears in the myths of the Amazon region where Brazil, Venezuela, and Guyana meet.

To support an artist-in-residence program. The SHIFT residency program provides one year of peer support and studio space for artists who work in arts organizations as curators, educators, and administrators. Each year as many as seven residents are selected through a competitive nomination process based on the excellence of their work, their potential for artistic growth, and the quality of contributions they have made to New York's cultural institutions. Resident artists participate in a two-week SHIFT Residency Intensive to establish goals and a framework for their work with the Foundation. The residency concludes with a formal evaluation process and a public exhibition.

Vivian Beaumont Theater, Inc.	(aka Lincoln Center Theater)	1846792-32-19
New York, NY 10023-6916

To support the Lincoln Center Theater's world premiere production of Marys Seacole, a new play by Jackie Sibblies Drury, directed by Lileana Blain-Cruz. The play tells the story of Mary Seacole, a Jamaican-born nurse who established a convalescent home that she used as a base to treat sick and wounded British soldiers during the Crimean War. Some people consider Seacole to be the mother of modern nursing, yet her accomplishments have been largely overshadowed by those of her contemporary Florence Nightingale. Exploring the roles of the comforter and the comforted, Drury posits that Mary Seacole is the archetype for modern-day Jamaican women working in nursing homes, childcare, and medical offices.

1846691-52-19

Brooklyn, NY 11211-1535

To support the translation from the Polish of Malgorzata Szejnert's Key Island, a work of creative nonfiction about the history of Ellis Island. As one of Poland's top literary journalists and co-founder of the country's first independent newspaper after the restoration of democracy, Szejnert (b. 1936) is credited with training a generation of reporters and continues to be one of the country's most influential literary voices. In Key Island, she presents a nuanced portrait of Ellis Island by interweaving perspectives taken from memoirs and correspondence of new arrivals, commissioners, interpreters, doctors, and nurses into a realistic tapestry of the island's history. The account begins with the island's origins in pre-Columbian America and progresses through its second life today as a museum, including the island's ordeal during the September 11, 2001, attacks, when it was first evacuated and then converted into a makeshift hospital.

Becker, Eric 1846608-52-19
Jackson Heights, NY 11372-4459

To support the translation from the Portuguese of a short story collection by Brazilian author Lygia Fagundes Telles. Telles (b. 1923) is a giant of 20th- and 21st-century Brazilian literature, widely considered one of Brazil's most celebrated living writers. She has won more than 25 international and national awards for her 22 books, including the Camoes Award—the most prestigious literary award in the Portuguese language—and yet there is only one novel of hers currently available in English and none of her stories. This project represents a departure from the historical bias toward the translation of Brazil's major male writers. The 400-page collection incorporates not only those stories that the author herself considers her most important works, but also those that critics have identified as indicative of her evolution as a writer.

Rochester, NY 14627-0001

To support the Memorial Art Gallery's exhibition The Path to Paradise: Judith Schaechter's Stained-Glass Art and an accompanying catalogue. This scholarly assessment of Schaechter's work will feature approximately 45 of her stained glass panels, along with related drawings, sketchbooks, and glass-making materials. Schaechter manipulates colorful flash glass through sandblasting, filing, engraving, and painting, and then mounts the glass panels onto custom-made lightboxes. Her work blends contemporary and historical imagery and typically features narratives that are dark and mysterious, yet infused with a spirit of hope and empathy. The exhibition will be accompanied by a focused, scholarly publication dedicated to her 35-year career that will include essays, an interview with the artist, and illustrations of her work.

Smith, Lytton	1846671-52-19
Rochester, NY 14618-1630

To support the translation from the Icelandic of the novel The Blotting by Sigrun Pálsdóttir. Although Pálsdóttir (b. 1967) has won or been short-listed for all of Iceland's major literary prizes, including the prestigious Icelandic Bookseller's Literary Prize and the Icelandic Women's Literature Prize, her books have not yet been translated into English. The topics she explores in her fiction—issues of reality, misjudgment, and social expectations guiding individual actions—are timely in a climate of social media and virtual realities. In The Blotting, a 17th-century manuscript is used as a catalyst for the demise of an historian protagonist's physical and mental world into the realm of delusion. The novel dramatizes the hold parents' lives have on those of their adult children and the often fragile professional spaces women in Icelandic and international culture face in their careers.
