Everett has partnered with social service agencies, the Providence school district, mental health clinicians, and Brown University in an initiative to address trauma experienced by youth living in high poverty areas. While working alongside mental health professionals in group therapy sessions to address issues of trauma, artists have collected students' stories to create the narrative of Good Grief. To support the translation from the Italian of selected poems by Dario Bellezza. Lauded by many luminaries of 20th-century Italian literature for his poems, novels, essays, and plays, Bellezza (1944-96) was known for exploring themes of rebirth, emotional unions, sexual transformation, and death alongside sociopolitical issues of gay rights. Some of his most complex poems of the later 1980s and '90s integrated metaphors of illness when Bellezza first became aware that he was HIV-positive. Winner of the Montale Prize and the Viareggio Prize—Italy's most prestigious poetry recognition—he often championed the rights of the disenfranchised in a fearless, satirical, and impassioned style. Tentatively titled What Sex is Death? Dario Bellezza: Selected Poems, this collection will span all eight poetry books from the author's 25-year publishing career, 1971 to 1996.
