The Arts & Economic Prosperity 6 (AEP6) survey is part of a study to measure the impact of the arts and culture in your community. This highly regarded research study is being conducted by independent project researchers at Americans for the Arts, which has been conducting these studies for more than 25 years. This research has been used for decades to leverage increases in local, state, and federal arts funding. Questions about the methodology and national implementation can be directed to research@artsusa.org.
